Letters considered libelous, racist or containing personal attacks will not be published.

Letters could take up to two weeks to be published after being received. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference. Longer letters are subject to condensation. Letters of more than 800 words are less likely to be published. Some unpublished letters, and longer versions of published letters may appear on our Web site at www.timesheraldonline.com.

In most circumstances, letters by the same author will not be published within two weeks — or longer — of each other.

"Thank you" letters to businesses, organizations or individuals may be given less priority in publishing, and subjected to stricter word limits.
